

'References to Sanatan evoking baffling reactions is painful'

Jagdeep Dhankhar said everyone on the planet must have the right of expression

NEW DELHI, 3 JANUARY

Vice President Jagdeep Dhankhar on Friday said it is ironic and painful that references to Hindu and Sanatan are evoking baffling reactions in the country.

Delivering the inaugural address at the 27th International Congress of Vedanta at Convention Centre in Jawaharlal Nehru University, he said: "We are one of the oldest civilisations, in several ways unique and unparalleled. Ironically and painfully, in this country, reference to Sanatan and Hindu evokes baffling reactions beyond comprehension, rather than understanding the depth of these words, the deep meaning, people tend to be in reaction mode at the drop of a hat."

"Can ignorance be more in extremity? Can the enormity of their lapse be countenanced. These are souls that have misguided themselves, driven by a dangerous ecosystem that is a threat not only to this society but to themselves."

Using very strong words, he said: "Some in our country, some in this land of spirituality, dismiss Vedanta and Sanatana texts as regressive. And they are doing it without knowing it, not even physically seeing them. Much less go through them."

"This dismissal often stems from perverted colonial mindsets, inefficient understanding of our intellectual heritage. These elements act in a structured manner, in a sinister fashion. Their design is pernicious. They camouflage their destructive thought process by perverting the concept of secularism. This is very dangerous. Secularism has been used as a shield to protect such heinous acts. Exposing these elements is the duty of every Indian." Stressing the need to stay attached to cultural roots, the Vice-President underlined: "We have to get back to our cultural roots. We have to be alive to our philosophical heritage because the world is getting increasingly interconnected. Sublimity, quintessential values of Vedanta philosophy remind us of inclusivity and which country can define inclusivity more than our Bharat. Our values define it, our actions define it, our individual life defines it, our social life defines it."

Emphasising the need to increase access to Vedantic wisdom, Dhankhar said: "Let us bring Vedantic wisdom from ivory towers to classrooms, ensuring its reach to every corner of society. Vedanta is not a relic of the past, but a blueprint for the future. As we face unprecedented global challenges, it offers practical solutions for sustainable development, ethical innovation, and harmonious coexistence".

Highlighting the vedantic wisdom of dialogue and discussion, he said everyone on the planet must have the right of expression. The right of expression is a divine gift. Its curtailment, its dilution by any mechanism is not wholesome.

"And this brings into picture another aspect, dialogue. If you have the right of expression but you don't engage in dialogue. Then things can't work out. And therefore, both these must go hand in hand. Expression and dialogue are quintessential to civility."

He observed that dialogue, debate, discussion, education have existed under the onslaught of disruption and disturbance, even in the throes of democracy.

Manipur CM N Biren Singh refutes Cong claims, defends apology amidst crisis stirred a volley of reactions from the opposition party who termed the confession as an admission of guilt.

Singh accepted the appointment of Bhalla as Manipur's governor, describing him as a competent and experienced individual.

"I know Bhalla ji well. His vast experience in critical administrative roles will be instrumental in resolving Manipur's challenges. This decision reflects the central government's serious commitment to the state's well-being," he added.

Regarding the ongoing ethnic violence, Singh acknowledged its complexity but assured the people that 60-70 percent of their demands have been implemented. He emphasised the need for trust in the central government's efforts to restore stability.

IMPHAL, 3 JANUARY

Manipur Chief Minister N Biren Singh has clarified that his recent apology for the ongoing unrest in the state was directed towards victims of the conflict, not towards those he termed as "terrorists."

Responding to Congress's criticism, Singh stated that his remarks were being misinterpreted to politicise the sensitive situation.

"Congress can say anything; they can even claim the sun is the moon. My apology was for those who lost loved ones or were displaced. Why should I apologise to terrorists?" Singh asked on the sidelines to the media during the oath-taking ceremony of Manipur's newly appointed Governor, Ajay Kumar Bhalla.

The Chief Minister accused the Congress party of being the root cause of the current turmoil, alleging that their intent was to obstruct peace and normalize the state.

Singh's statement on New Year's Eve expressing regret for the violence that marred the state for the last one year was followed by a series of developments. On January 2, Prime Minister Narendra Modi expressed his concern over the situation in Manipur and called for a "wholehearted" response from the central government. On January 3, Singh issued a formal apology to the people of Manipur for the recent unrest, stating that it was aimed at addressing the "victims of the conflict" and not "terrorists".
